The Third International Conference on Papuan Linguistics was held in Madang, Papua New Guinea, 15-18 September 1992. Six of the twenty papers from the conference were published in the first issue of LLM for 1993; another five appear in this issue. In all, eleven of the twenty papers presented at the conference appear in these two issues. The other papers have either been published elsewhere or are still being revised by the authors. Possibly some of these nine will still appear in some future edition of LLM. For now, I’ll list the other nine papers so any readers who are interested in the topics discussed can correspond directly with the author.

A Comparative Analysis of the Strickland Plain Languages – John M. Clifton
The Zia Pronominal System of Address – Sakarcpe Kamene
From Event to Grammar: Serial Verb Constructions in Kalam –
Jonathan Lane and Andrew Pawley
Parallels between Stems and Medial Verbs in Baruya – Richard Lloyd
Some Minor Word Classes in Tanggu – Johan Lotterman
Was It a Surprise, or Did You Expect It? – Robert Petterson
The Morphological and Syntactic Status of Verbs in Amele – John R. Roberts
Reconstructing the Linguistic Pre-history of the Isumnud Strait: A Progress Report –
Malcolm Ross
Medial Verb System of Menya – Carl Whithead

For more information on the conference, contact the secretary of the LSPNG at the address inside the front cover. And keep watching for the announcement for the Fourth International Conference on Papuan Linguistics scheduled for 1996. We’d love to see you there!

Language and Linguistics in Melanesia (formerly Kivung) is published by the Linguistic Society of Papua New Guinea and the Society on Fidgins and Creoles in Melanesia. Volumes 13-22 were published once a year; beginning with volume 23 it is published twice a year.

Actually, Language and Linguistics in Melanesia covers the linguistic situation in Melanesia, where one fourth of the world's languages are spoken, as symbolised by the cover design.

The journal focuses on data-oriented articles with theoretical implications. In addition, it is open for reactions or replies to recent papers, squibs (brief notes or observations regarding natural language phenomena), letters to the editors, and book reviews.

All correspondence for the reviews section should be addressed to John Roberts; all other editorial correspondence should be addressed to John Clifton. All manuscripts should be submitted in three copies, and should be typed fully double-spaced in a font not small than 12 point (10 characters per inch), single-sided. The title, but not the author’s name, should appear on the first page. The author’s name should not appear on any following pages in any way that might identify the author as such. The title, author’s name, author’s affiliation, and full mailing address(es) should appear on a separate sheet of paper. In case there is more than one author, an indication should be made as to the author responsible for proofreading.

Six copies of each article published are provided free of charge.
